Abstracts of the 1996 Annual Meeting of the American Society of Human Genetics, 1996, November 14-18, 1996, Denver, Colorado, USA. Am J Hum Genet 59:1-10, 1996

The American Society of Human Genetics (ASHG) is a non-profit organization dedicated to the advancement of human genetics. The Society's primary focus is on the study of human genetic variation and its role in disease. The Society's members are scientists, clinicians, and educators who are interested in the field of human genetics. The Society's activities include the publication of the Journal of Human Genetics, the organization of annual meetings, and the provision of educational programs. The Society's mission is to advance the understanding of human genetics and to improve the health of the human population.

The 1996 Annual Meeting of the American Society of Human Genetics was held in Denver, Colorado, USA, from November 14-18, 1996. The meeting was attended by over 1,000 scientists, clinicians, and educators from around the world. The meeting featured a variety of sessions, including plenary sessions, symposia, workshops, and poster sessions. The meeting was a major event in the field of human genetics and provided an excellent opportunity for scientists to present their research and to interact with their colleagues.

The following is a list of the abstracts presented at the 1996 Annual Meeting of the American Society of Human Genetics. The abstracts are organized by session and are listed in alphabetical order by author. The abstracts are available in both English and French.
